The annual performance of Malaysia's natural rubber production in the second quarter of 2026 recorded a decrease of 4.7 per cent as compared to the second quarter 2025 (68,513 tonnes).

According to the Malaysia Rubber Board Digest published in June 2026, The Kuala Lumpur rubber market traded mixed during this month. The market was initially supported by persistent concerns over tightening natural rubber supply in major producing countries amid severe El Niño conditions, prolonged dry weather and expectations of lower rubber yields. Market sentiment was further underpinned by firm regional rubber futures, resilient economic activity in the United States of America and China, stronger automotive demand, and continued expansion in the global tyre industry. However, prices retreated towards the end of the month following the easing of geopolitical tensions after the United States of America-Iran ceasefire, which led to a sharp decline in crude oil prices and improved supply sentiment.

The Department of Statistics Malaysia (DOSM) is conducting the Economic Census 2026 (BE2026), with themed “Data Nadi Ekonomi Rakyat”.
