

PREFACE

The Malaysia Standard Industrial Classification 2008 (MSIC 2008) Version 1.0 is prepared by the Department of Statistics, Malaysia for use in the collection, compilation and publication of statistics. These statistics range from the classifications of economic activities arising from censuses and surveys to data compiled from administrative records. The MSIC is intended to be a standard classification of productive economic activities. Its main purpose is to provide a set of activity categories that can be utilized for the collection and presentation of statistics according to such activities. Therefore MSIC aims to present this set of activity categories in such a way that entities can be classified according to the economic activity they carry out.

New economic activities, technological advances and the new business environment have led to considerable changes in the structure of the Malaysian economy. Thus it is only appropriate for the classification to be updated incorporating changes in the economic activities and the structure of these activities as well as the emergence of new industries in Malaysia. This publication is an update of the Malaysia Standard Industrial Classification 2000 (MSIC 2000) which had been used as the main reference classification of all economic and household censuses and surveys carried out by the Department of Statistics, Malaysia.

For purposes of international comparability, the MSIC 2008 Version 1.0 conforms closely to the International Standard Industrial Classification of All Economic Activities (ISIC) Revision 4, published by the United Nations Statistics Division, with some modifications to suit national requirements. Consultations with relevant ministries and government agencies in the development of this classification have been reflected where appropriate. It is hoped that this publication will be adopted for use for both the public and private sectors to ensure consistency and comparability of data. Comments and suggestions towards future improvement of this classification are most welcome.

The MSIC 2008 Version 1.0 was prepared by a technical working group comprising staff of the various Divisions in the Department as well as inputs from government agencies. I gratefully acknowledged their assistance, to all who have successfully prepared this publication.

MALAYSIA STANDARD INDUSTRIAL CLASSIFICATION 2008 VER. 1.0

INTRODUCTION	Malaysia Standard Industrial Classification 2008 (MSIC) Ver. 1.0 is a classification of all economic activities in Malaysia which adopts the International Standard Industrial Classification (ISIC) Revision 4 released in December 2006, with the necessary modifications to meet national requirements. It replaces the MSIC 2000 which was based on ISIC Revision 3. The main purpose of the MSIC is to provide a set of activity categories that can be used for the collection and presentation of statistics according to such activities. Industries are then formed by grouping units with a common primary activity, according to specified similarity criteria. MSIC can then be used to produce statistics by activity or by industry, for enterprises as well as for establishments or kind of activity units.
HISTORICAL DEVELOPMENTS	The first Malaysia Industrial Classification (MIC) was published in 1957. It was subsequently revised in 1967 to bring it inline with the International Standard Industrial Classification of all Economic Activities (ISIC) of 1958 (Statistical Papers, Series M, No.4, Rev.1) and then again in 1972 to incorporate the changes reflected in the ISIC of 1968 (Statistical Papers Series M, No. 4, Rev.2). The MSIC 2000 was the third revision in this series and was based on the ISIC introduced in 1990 (Statistical Papers Series M No. 4 Rev.3).
NATURE AND PRINCIPLES OF CLASSIFICATION	The objective of an industrial classification system is to classify data in respect of the economy according to categories of activities and the characteristics of which will be similar. MSIC is a classification of kinds of economic activity and not a classification of goods and services or a classification of occupations.
CLASSIFICATION BY PRINCIPAL ACTIVITY	The principal activity of a unit should be determined by reference to the value added by the goods sold or services rendered. In

CLASSIFICATION BY

practice it is often not possible to obtain the information on value added for individual products. It is therefore recommended that in such cases, the principal activity be determined by other criteria as an approximation, such as:

- The proportion of the gross output of the unit that is attributable to the goods or services associated with these kinds of activity;
- Value of sales of those groups of products;
- Employment if that can be allocated approximately by kinds of activity.

The treatment of vertical integration in MSIC where a unit with a vertically integrated chain of activities should generally be classified to the class indicated by the nature of the final product. Meanwhile, the classification of all other cases of multi-activity units are made according to the value added criteria.

The one or predominantly one, kind of economic activity clause in the definition raises the problem of multi-activity units. For example, there are some cases where the single legal entity may engage in more than one kind of activity at a single location or at two or more nearby sites. The record keeping practices of the entity may be such that data in respect of the inputs and outputs of the items of the activity cannot be separately compiled. In these instances, it will be necessary to utilize the local unit, i.e. the entity that carries out more than one economic activity in one location as the statistical unit. Thus, the local unit embraces a range of related activities, one of which predominate the rest. The activity that predominates is known as the primary activity and the rest as secondary activities. However if each of the various kinds of activity of a given local unit is substantial, then efforts are usually made to subdivide the local unit into statistical units that are comparable to the establishments.

The design of the MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 is also based on establishments. Establishments are classified according to their major kind of economic activity based mainly on the principal class of goods produced or services rendered. They include among others, individual organisations, factories, estates, shops, etc. The industrial classification does not draw distinctions according to kind of ownership, type of economic organisation or mode of operation.

In the case of certain kinds of economic activities such as construction, transportation and communication, a single legal entity will carry out the same kind of activity over a wide geographical area and will probably not keep records on the inputs and outputs classified according to areas. In these fields of activity, it may be necessary to use the kind-of-activity unit (which has no restriction with respect to the geographical area in which a given kind of activity is carried out by a single legal entity) instead of the establishment as the statistical unit.

It must be borne in mind that data collected from establishments are seldom "pure" in relation to the classification system. The various categories of the industrial classification are defined (and generally named) in terms of the principal products or activities of the establishments assigned to each. Any establishment in any industry may, however, produce as a minor activity, commodities assigned to another industry. As a result, the activities of any "industry" are not necessarily always confined to the types of activity by which the industry is named, nor are these types of activity necessarily only found in that industry.

STRUCTURE OF THE CLASSIFICATION

The structure MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 provides is hierarchical levels of activities. At the highest aggregation level, there are 21 tabulation categories called "section", each denoted by a single alphabetical letter.

Following is a possible high-level structure for MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 and for each section comprises one or more divisions:

Sections	Description	Divisions
A	Agriculture, forestry and fishing	01-03
B	Mining and quarrying	05-09

STRUCTURE OF THE CLASSIFICATION

The 88 two-digit divisions constitute the highest numerical category in the MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0. They are broken down into more detailed categories comprising 238 three-digit groups and 423 four-digit classes. There are altogether 1,197 five-digit items at the most detailed level.

As an example, the formation of the five-digit code for items in the Section A - 'Agriculture, forestry and fishing' is illustrated below:

Level	Title and Description	Codes
Section	Agriculture, Forestry And Fishing	A
Division	Crop and animal production, hunting and related service activities	01
Group	Growing of non-perennial crops	011
Class	Growing of cereals (except paddy), leguminous crops and oil seeds	0111
Item	Growing of maize	01111
	Growing of leguminous crops	01112
	Growing of oil seeds	01113
	Growing of other cereals n.e.c.	01119

The summary of detailed levels are being specified as following table:

Sections	Divisions	Groups	Classes	Items
A	3	13	38	142
B	5	10	14	56
C	24	71	137	259
D	1	3	3	8

The digit '9' that appears in the third, fourth or fifth digit position of the classification code designate respectively three-digit groups, four-digit classes or five-digit items covering activities 'not elsewhere classified' (or 'n.e.c.'). These residual activities do not usually constitute homogeneous primary activity groups but rather diverse activities which are not sufficiently significant to justify separate codes. Under the classification system, they are grouped together and treated as a separate industry to retain the homogeneity of the other industries in the group.

CLASSIFICATION OF STATISTICAL UNITS

The term, 'statistical unit'¹, is used widely in statistical work and refers to legal entities from which or about which statistics are collected, compiled, tabulated and published. They include, among others, individual organisations, factories, estates, shops and financial institutions. Five types of statistical units may be used for data collection and compilation in economic censuses and surveys for different industries. These are establishments, local units, kind-of-activity units, enterprises and enterprise groups. The concepts of these five types are explained in the following sections:

CLASSIFICATION OF

a. Establishment and local unit

The United Nations Statistical Office has defined an establishment as:

'ideally, an economic unit which engages, under a single ownership or control, i.e. under a single legal entity, in one, or predominantly one, kind of economic activity at a single location'.

The 'single location' requirement in this definition means that data from an establishment-based survey can be compiled on a geographical basis. This is an extremely useful characteristic. The requirement however limits the kind of data that can be collected. For example, some kinds of financial data such as overhead costs, profits, advertising costs, etc. are normally available only on a company or enterprise basis, and must, therefore, be excluded from establishment-based surveys.

There are cases where a single legal entity may engage in one class of activities at two or more nearby sites and may not maintain complete records for each site. Covering all sites in a single establishment in these instances will usually not represent a significant departure from the ideal concept. Thus, the concept of single location could refer to two or more nearby sites.

The 'one or predominantly one, kind of economic activity' clause in the definition raises the problem of multi-activity units. For example, there are some cases where the single legal entity may engage in more than one kind of activity at a single location, or at two or more nearby sites. The record keeping practices of the entity may be such that data in respect of the inputs and outputs of the items of activity cannot be separately compiled. In these instances, it will be necessary to utilize the local unit, i.e. the entity that carries out more than one economic activity in one location, as the statistical unit. Thus, the local unit embraces a range of related activities, one of which predominates the rest. The activity that predominates is known as primary activity and the rest as secondary activities. If an activity is different from the principal activity or secondary activity and the output of this activity is used as intermediate input of the principal or secondary activity, this activity is referred to as ancillary activity.

However, if each of the various kinds of activity of a given local unit is substantial, and is carried out in distinct establishments and separate reporting is possible, then efforts are usually made to subdivide the local unit into statistical units that are comparable to the establishments.

These concepts of establishments and local units are applicable in many situations encountered in enquiries on agriculture, mining, manufacturing and distribution even though they cannot be applied strictly. Indeed, for operational convenience, the statistical units applied to many economic surveys, such as Survey of Manufacturing Industries, refer to a mixture of establishments and local units.

b. Kind-of-activity unit

Unlike the establishment, the kind-of-activity unit has no restriction with respect to the geographical area in which a given kind of activity is carried out by a single legal entity. In the case of certain kinds of economic activities such as construction, transportation and communication, a single legal entity will carry out the same kind of activity over a wide geographical area and will probably not keep records on the inputs and outputs classified according to areas. In these fields of activity, it may be necessary to use the kind-of-activity unit instead of the establishment as the statistical unit.

CLASSIFICATION OF

c. Enterprise

The concept of enterprise differs from that of an establishment. An enterprise is defined as the entire economic activity operated under a single legal entity and it may consist of more than one establishment.

It is an institutional unit² engaged in the production of goods and services for the market. The legal entity may be a corporation, co-operative, association, partnership, individual proprietorship or may take some other form of association. The enterprise is appropriate as the statistical unit for surveys of institutions, such as financial companies. For balance of payments purposes an enterprise consists of the operations of the legal entity resident in one country for example, a corporation or a branch of a non-resident company.

d. Enterprise group

An enterprise group (or family of legal entities or family of corporations³) is the operations of a set of legal entities, which are resident in one country and connected to a parent-subsidiary relationship.

The 'parent' in the relationship may or may not be resident.

² An institutional unit is an economic entity that is capable in its own right of owning assets, incurring liabilities and engaging in economic activities and in transactions with others entities (cf. System of National Accounts 1993, Chapter IV page 87)

³ Very large families of corporations are described as conglomerates. Conglomerates may include corporations resident in countries, in which case the parents corporation is usually described as a multi-national corporation (Ibid. page 92)

CLASSIFICATION OF
STATISTICAL UNITS

The enterprise group as a statistical unit is the preferred unit in the Balance of Payments compilation⁴. This is because many international transactions are organised on this basis.

METHODS OF CLASSIFYING
STATISTICAL UNIT

The step-by-step method may be used to classify establishments or other statistical units to the codes in the MSIC. By this method, a statistical unit is initially classified at the broadest level of the MSIC and subsequently at successive lower levels, e.g. classification to a Division, then to a Group within the Division, and so on until the unit is finally classified to an Item.

When applying this method, there are some special consideration in classification as following:

- a. At each level, i.e. Division, Group, Class or Item, a unit can be classified to only one cell e.g. Item.
- b. The codes of the different levels to which a unit is classified must be related by aggregation or disaggregation, e.g. an establishment classified to the Division of Crop and animal production, hunting and related service activities (Division 01) may only be classified to a Group within this Division such as Growing of non-perennial crops (Group 011).
- c. The class in which the principal activity or range of activities of the unit is included determines the activity classification of each unit. The principal activity of the unit, in general, should be determined from the value added of the goods it sells or ships, or the services it renders to other units or consumers. In situations where such data are not available, data on output, sales or gross receipts, wages and salaries or average number of workers may be considered as alternative measures. However, only one of these measures should be used in order

METHODS OF CLASSIFYING

to ensure consistent classification of all units. Otherwise, a mixed activity unit may be classified to one industry in one data collection and to another industry in another collection.

- d In the case of vertical integration, the activities of an economic unit extend over a number of stages in the production or fabrication of a product, and the output of one process serves as the input for the next. For such cases, the unit is to be classified according to the activity indicated by the nature of the final product. For example, the activity of a granite quarry combine with a plant making concrete products where the sales of the product at the intermediate stage are not significant, should be classified as a Manufacture of articles of concrete, cement and plaster (Class 2395). An establishment which develops and then publishes computer software is classified as a software publisher instead of a software developer.
- e Units that repair or overhaul capital goods are classified in the same activity as the units that produce the goods, except for the following:
- Maintenance and repair of motor vehicles* (Group 452) and sale of motor vehicle parts and accessories (Group 453);
 - Repair of computers and communication equipment* (Group 951);
 - Repair of personal and household goods* (Group 952);
 - Repair and installation of machinery and equipment* (Division 33)
- f Retail trade of goods produced in the same unit should not be considered as a separate activity. Therefore a manufacturing establishment which sells its own products is classified under manufacturing instead of retail trade. However, if other products are sold in addition to self-produced goods, classification should be done according to the principal activity of the unit.

METHODS OF CLASSIFYING

The ideal method of classification of enterprises is to determine which establishments are owned by the enterprise and then, by using the total value added of each establishment as a 'weight' to determine the predominant industry of the establishment owned. In practice, it may not be possible to use the ideal method in a statistical collection. In such circumstances, an enterprise should be assigned the MSIC code of the largest establishment owned in terms of employment measure viz., number of employees.

Since the activities of an enterprise cover a wide range of Groups, Classes or Items, it may be appropriate for certain statistics to classify an enterprise at the Division level only.

MAJOR CHANGES IN
THE MSIC 2008 VER.
1.0

In general, the framework of the MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 and the MSIC 2000 are broadly similar. However, with the expansion of certain types of industries, specific areas in the MSIC have been given greater emphasis to reflect such changes from 17 to 21 sections.

Category	MSIC 2000	MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0	Growth (%)
Sections	17	21	23.5
Divisions	60	88	46.7
Groups	157	238	51.6
Classes	302	423	40.1
Items	698	1,174	68.2

Some of the major changes introduced in the MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 are listed below:

- a. Agriculture: Agriculture, hunting and forestry (Section A) and

MAJOR CHANGES IN
THE MSIC 2008 VER.
1.0

- Fishing (Section B) were combined under Agriculture, forestry and fishing (Section A) in MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0.
- b. Mining and Quarrying: Division 12 and 13 were combined to division 07 under Section B.
 - c. Manufacturing: Manufacture of food products and beverage (division 15) was expanded to two separate Divisions which are division 10 and 11. Manufacture of chemicals and chemical products (division 24) was separated to division 20 and 21. Manufacture of furniture; manufacturing n.e.c. (division 36) was expanded to three separate divisions which is Division 31, 32 and 33. Recycling under Manufacturing (Division 37) was reclassified into related division. It is because the size of this division is small in Malaysia and has difficult borders within manufacturing, trade and other activities like sewage and refuse disposal. The production of ice, including ice for food and non-food (e.g. cooling) purposes has been classified under class 3530 - utility steam and air conditioning supply and not classified as manufacturing as in the MSIC 2000. Publishing, printing and reproduction of recorded media in division 22 was moved to division 58 under section J.
 - d. Water Supply; Sewerage, waste management and remediation activities: Sewage and refuse disposal, sanitation and similar activities were moved from section O to Sewerage under division 37.
 - e. Construction: Construction was expanded to three separate divisions which are construction of buildings, civil engineering and specialized construction activities (division 41, 42 and 43).
 - f. Wholesale and Retail Trade: repair of personal household

MAJOR CHANGES IN
THE MSIC 2008 VER.
1.0

- goods (division 52) was moved to division 95 under section others service activities
- g. Transportation and Storage: Travel agencies (division 63) were moved to section administrative and support service activities (division 75).
 - h. Accommodation and Food Services Activities: Hotel and restaurants in division 55 was separated into division 55 and 56.
 - i. Information and Communication: This section was introduced to reflect recent developments in the information technology. Recreational, cultural and sporting activities (division 92 in section O) was moved and spread out to division 59 and 60 in section J. Meanwhile, computer and related activities (division 72) in section K was moved and expanded to division 62 and 63 in section J.
 - j. Professional, Scientific and Technical Activities: Section K was reorganised into related section in MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0. For example, Other business activities (division 74) was categorised into division 69, 70, 71, 73 and 74 under section M. Veterinary activities (division 75) was removed from division 85, section Health and social work in MSIC 2000.
 - k. Human Health and Social Work Activities: Division 85 was expanded to divisions 86, 87 and 88.
 - l. Arts, Entertainment and Recreation: This new section previously classified in division 92 in section O and has been spread out to divisions 90, 91, 92 and 93 in MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0.

The changes in the MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 have thus resulted in differences in data comparability with the MSIC 2000. Therefore, for ease of comparison, the MSIC 2000 codes are provided against the MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0 codes in the classification.

SECTION A : AGRICULTURE, FORESTRY AND FISHING

LEVEL	MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0
DIVISION	3
GROUP	13
CLASS	38
ITEM	142

This section includes the exploitation of vegetal and animal natural resources, comprising the activities of growing crops, raising and breeding of animals, harvesting of timber and other plants, animals or animal products from a farm or their natural habitats.

This section also includes crops and animal production, hunting and related service activities, foresting and logging.

DIVISION 01 CROPS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTION, HUNTING AND RELATED SERVICE ACTIVITIES

This division includes two basic activities, namely the production of crops products and production of animal products, covering also the forms of organic agriculture, the growing of genetically modified crops and the raising of genetically modified animals.

This division also includes service activities incidental to agriculture, as well as hunting, trapping and related activities.

Group 015 (Mixed farming) breaks with the usual principles for identifying main activity. It accepts that many agricultural holdings have reasonably balanced crops and animal production and that it would be arbitrary to classify them in one category or the other.

Agricultural activities exclude any subsequent processing of the agricultural products (classified under divisions 10 and 11 (Manufacture of food products and beverages) and division 12 (Manufacture of tobacco products), beyond that needed to prepare them for the primary markets. However, the preparation of products for the primary markets is included here.

The division excludes field construction (e.g. agricultural land terracing, drainage, preparing rice paddies, etc.) classified in section F (Construction) and buyers and cooperative associations engaged in the marketing of farm products classified in section G.

GROUP 011 Growing of non-perennial crops

This group includes the growing of non-perennial crops, i.e. plants that do not last for more than two growing seasons. Included is the growing of these plants for the purpose of seed production.

GROUP 012 Growing of perennial crops

This group includes the growing of perennial crops, i.e. plants that lasts for more than two growing seasons, either dying back after each season or growing continuously. Included is the growing of these plants for the purpose of seed production.

GROUP 013 Plant propagation

This group includes the production of all vegetative planting materials including cuttings, suckers and seedlings for direct plant propagation or to create plant grafting stock into which selected scion is grafted for eventual planting to produce crops.

GROUP 014 Animal production

This group includes raising (farming) and breeding of all animals, except aquatic animals.

This group excludes breeding support services, such as stud services (see 0162), farm animal boarding and care (see 0162) and production of hides and skins from slaughterhouses (see 1010).

GROUP 015 Mixed farming

This group includes the combined production of crops and animals without a specialized production of crops or animals. The size of the overall farming operation is not a determining factor. If either production of crops or animals in a given unit exceeds 66 per cent or more of standard gross margins, the combined activity should not be included here, but allocated either to crops or animal farming.

This group excludes mixed crops farming (see group 011 and 012) and mixed animal farming (see group 014).

GROUP 016 Support activities to agriculture and post-harvest crops activities

This group includes activities incidental to agricultural production and activities similar to agriculture not undertaken for production purposes (in the sense of harvesting agricultural products), done on a fee or contract basis. Also included are post-harvest crops activities, aimed at preparing agricultural products for the primary market.

GROUP 017 Hunting, trapping and related service activities

This group includes hunting and trapping on a commercial basis, taking of animals (dead or alive) for food, fur, skin, or for use in research, in zoos or as pets and production of fur skins, reptile or bird skins from hunting or trapping activities.

DIVISION 03 FISHING AND AQUACULTURE

This division includes capture fishery and aquaculture, covering the use of fishery resources from marine, brackish or freshwater environments, with the goal of capturing or gathering fish, crustaceans, molluscs and other marine organisms and products (e.g. aquatic plants, pearls, sponges, etc.).

Also included are activities that are normally integrated in the process of production for own account (e.g. seeding oysters for pearl production).

This division excludes building and repairing of ships and boats (3011, 3315) and sport or recreational fishing activities (9319). Processing of fish, crustaceans or molluscs is excluded, whether at land-based plants or on factory ships (1020).

GROUP 031 Fishing

This group includes "capture fishery", i.e. the hunting, collecting and gathering activities directed at removing or collecting live wild aquatic organisms (predominantly fish, molluscs and crustaceans) including plants from the oceanic, coastal or inland waters for human consumption and other purposes by hand or more usually by various types of fishing gear such as nets, lines and stationary traps. Such activities can be conducted on the intertidal shoreline (e.g. collection of molluscs such as mussels and oysters) or shore based netting, or from home-made dugouts or more commonly using commercially made boats in inshore, coastal waters or offshore waters. Unlike in aquaculture (group 032), the aquatic resource being captured is usually common property resource irrespective of whether the harvest from this resource is undertaken with or without exploitation rights. Such activities also include fishing restocked water bodies.

GROUP 032 Aquaculture

This group includes "aquaculture" (or aqua farming), i.e. the production process involving the culturing or farming (including harvesting) of aquatic organisms (fish, molluscs, crustaceans, plants, crocodiles, alligators and amphibians) using techniques designed to increase the production of the organisms in question beyond the natural capacity of the environment (for example regular stocking, feeding and protection from predators).

Culturing/farming refers to the rearing up to their juvenile and/or adult phase under captive conditions of the above organisms. In addition, "aquaculture" also encompasses individual, corporate or state ownership of the individual organisms throughout the rearing or culture stage, up to and including harvesting.

SECTION B : MINING AND QUARRYING

LEVEL	MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0
DIVISION	5
GROUP	10
CLASS	14
ITEM	56

Mining and quarrying include the extraction of minerals occurring naturally as solids (coal and ores), liquids (petroleum) or gases (natural gas). Extraction can be achieved by different methods such as underground or surface mining, well operation, seabed mining, etc.

This section includes mining of coal and lignite; extraction of crude petroleum and natural gas; mining of metal ores and other mining and quarrying.

This section also includes supplementary activities aimed at preparing the crude materials for marketing, for example, crushing, grinding, cleaning, drying, sorting, concentrating ores, liquefaction of natural gas and agglomeration of solid fuels. These operations are often carried out by the units that extracted the resource and/or others located nearby.

Mining activities are classified into divisions, groups and classes on the basis of the principal mineral produced. Divisions 05, 06 are concerned with mining and quarrying of fossil fuels (coal, lignite, petroleum, gas); divisions 07, 08 concern metal ores, various minerals and quarry products.

Some of the technical operations of this section, particularly related to the extraction of hydrocarbons, may also be carried out for third parties by specialized units as an industrial service, which is reflected in division 09.

This section excludes the processing of the extracted materials (see section C - Manufacturing), which also covers the bottling of natural spring and mineral waters at springs and wells (see class 1104) or the crushing, grinding or otherwise treating certain earths, rocks and minerals not carried out in conjunction with mining and quarrying (see class 2399). SECTION C : MANUFACTURING

DIVISION	24
GROUP	71
CLASS	137
ITEM	259

This section, Manufacturing, includes the physical or chemical transformation of materials, substances, or components into new products, although this cannot be used as the single universal criterion for defining manufacturing (see remark on processing of waste below). The materials, substances, or components transformed are raw materials that are products of agriculture, forestry, fishing, mining or quarrying as well as products of other manufacturing activities. Substantial alteration, renovation or reconstruction of goods is generally considered to be manufacturing.

This section includes manufacture of food products, beverages, tobacco products, textile, wearing apparel, leather, wood and products of wood and cork (except furniture), articles of straw and plaiting materials, paper and paper products, printing and reproduction of recorded media, coke and refined petroleum products, chemicals and chemical products, basic pharmaceutical products and pharmaceutical properties, rubber and plastic products, other non-metallic mineral product, basic metal, fabricated metal products, except machinery and equipment, computer, electronic and optical products, electrical equipment, machinery and equipment n.e.c., motor vehicles trailers and semi-trailers, other transport equipment, other manufacturing, repair and installation of machinery and equipment.

Units engaged in manufacturing are often described as plants, factories or mills and characteristically use power-driven machines and materials-handling equipment. However, units that transform materials or substances into new products by hand or in the worker's home and those engaged in selling to the general public of products made on the same premises from which they are sold, such as bakeries and custom tailors, are also included in this section. Manufacturing units may process materials or may contract with other units to process their materials for them. Both types of units are included in manufacturing.

The output of a manufacturing process may be finished in the sense that it is ready for utilization or consumption, or it may be semi-finished in the sense that it is to become an input for further manufacturing. For example, the output of alumina refining is the input used in the primary production of aluminium; primary aluminium is the input to aluminium wire drawing; and aluminium wire is the input for the manufacture of fabricated wire products.

Manufacture of specialized components and parts of, and accessories and attachments to, machinery and equipment is, as a general rule, classified in the same class as the manufacture of the machinery and equipment for which the parts and accessories are intended. Manufacture of unspecialized components and parts of machinery and equipment, e.g.: engines, pistons, electric motors, electrical assemblies, valves, gears, roller bearings, is classified in the appropriate class of manufacturing, without regard to the machinery and equipment in which these items may be included. However, making specialized components and accessories by moulding or extruding plastics materials is included in class 2220.

Assembly of the component parts of manufactured products is considered manufacturing. This includes the assembly of manufactured products from either self-produced or purchased components.

The recovery of waste, i.e. such as the processing of waste into secondary raw materials is classified in class 3830 (Materials recovery). While this may involve physical or chemical transformations, this is not considered to be a part of manufacturing. The primary purpose of these activities is considered to be the treatment or processing of waste and they are therefore classified in Section E (Water supply; sewerage, waste management and remediation activities). However, the manufacture of new final products (as opposed to secondary raw materials) is classified in manufacturing, even if these processes use waste as an input. For example, the production of silver from film waste is considered to be a manufacturing process.

Specialized maintenance and repair of industrial, commercial and similar machinery and equipment is, in general, classified in division 33 (Repair, maintenance and installation of machinery and equipment). However, the repair of computers and personal and household goods is classified in division 95 (Repair of computers and personal and household goods), while the repair of motor vehicles is classified in division 45 (Wholesale and retail trade and repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles).

The installation of machinery and equipment, when carried out as a specialized activity, is classified in 3320.

Remark: The boundaries of manufacturing and the other sectors of the classification system can be somewhat blurry. As a general rule, the activities in the manufacturing section involve the transformation of materials into new products. Their output is a new product. However, the definition of what constitutes a new product can be somewhat subjective. As clarification, the following activities are considered manufacturing in MSIC: milk pasteurizing and bottling (see 1050), fresh fish processing (oyster shucking, fish filleting), not done on a fishing boat (see 1020), printing and related activities (see 1811, 1812), ready-mixed concrete production (see 2395), leather converting (see 1511), wood preserving (see 1610), electroplating, plating, metal heat treating, and polishing (see 2592), rebuilding or remanufacturing machinery (e.g. automobile engines, see 2910) and tyre retreading (see 2211).

Conversely, there are activities that, although sometimes involving transformation processes, are classified in other sections of MSIC; in other words, they are not classified as manufacturing. They include logging, classified in section A (Agriculture, forestry and fishing); beneficiating of agricultural products, classified in section A (Agriculture, forestry and fishing); beneficiating of ores and other minerals, classified in section B (Mining and quarrying); construction of structures and fabricating operations performed at the site of construction, classified in section F (Construction) and activities of breaking bulk and redistribution in smaller lots, including packaging, repackaging, or bottling products, such as liquors or chemicals; sorting of scrap; mixing paints to customer order; and cutting metals to customer order, produce a modified version of the same product are classified to section G (Wholesale and retail trade; repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles).

DIVISION 10 MANUFACTURE OF FOOD PRODUCTS

This division includes the processing of the products of agriculture, forestry and fishing into food for humans or animals, and includes the production of various intermediate products that are not directly food products. The activity often generates associated products of greater or lesser value (for example, hides from slaughtering or oilcake from oil production).

This division is organized by activities dealing with different kinds of products: meat, fish, fruit and vegetables, fats and oils, milk products, grain mill products, animal feeds and other food products. Production can be carried out for own account, as well as for third parties, as in custom slaughtering.

Some activities are considered manufacturing (for example, those performed in bakeries, pastry shops, and prepared meat shops, etc. which sell their own production) even though there is retail sale of the products in the producers' own shop. However, where the processing is minimal and does not lead to a real transformation, the unit is classified to Wholesale and retail trade (section G).

Production of animal feeds from slaughter waste or by-products is classified in 1080, while processing food and beverage waste into secondary raw material is classified to 3830, and disposal of food and beverage waste in 3821.

DIVISION 17 MANUFACTURE OF PAPER AND PAPER PRODUCTS

This division includes the manufacture of pulp, paper and converted paper products. The manufacture of these products is grouped together because they constitute a series of vertically connected processes. More than one activity is often carried out in a single unit. There are essentially three activities: The manufacture of pulp involves separating the cellulose fibres from other impurities in wood or used paper. The manufacture of paper involves matting these fibres into a sheet. Converted paper products are made from paper and other materials by various cutting and shaping techniques, including coating and laminating activities. The paper articles may be printed (e.g. wallpaper, gift wrap, etc.), as long as the printing of information is not the main purpose.

The production of pulp, paper and paperboard in bulk is included in class 1701, while the remaining classes include the production of further-processed paper and paper products.

GROUP 170 Manufacture of paper and paper products

This group includes manufacture of pulp, paper and paperboard; manufacture of corrugated paper and paperboard and of containers of paper and paperboard; manufacture of other articles of paper and paperboard.

DIVISION 18 PRINTING AND REPRODUCTION OF RECORDED MEDIA

This division includes printing of products, such as newspapers, books, periodicals, business forms, greeting cards, and other materials, and associated support activities, such as bookbinding, plate-making services, and data imaging. The support activities included here are an integral part of the printing industry, and a product (a printing plate, a bound book, or a computer disk or file) that is an integral part of the printing industry is almost always provided by these operations.

Processes used in printing include a variety of methods for transferring an image from a plate, screen, or computer file to a medium, such as paper, plastics, metal, textile articles, or wood. The most prominent of these methods entails the transfer of the image from a plate or screen to the medium through lithographic, gravure, screen or flexography printing. Often a computer file is used to directly "drive" the printing mechanism to create the image or electrostatic and other types of equipment (digital or non-impact printing).

Though printing and publishing can be carried out by the same unit (a newspaper, for example), it is less and less the case that these distinct activities are carried out in the same physical location.

This division also includes the reproduction of recorded media, such as compact discs, video recordings, software on discs or tapes, records, etc.

This division excludes publishing activities (see section J).

GROUP 181 Printing and service activities related to printing

This group includes printing of products, such as newspapers, books, periodicals, business forms, greeting cards, and other materials, and associated support activities, such as bookbinding, plate-making services, and data imaging. CDIVISION 28 MANUFACTURE OF MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT N.E.C.

This division includes the manufacture of machinery and equipment that act independently on materials either mechanically or thermally or perform operations on materials (such as handling, spraying, weighing or packing), including their mechanical components that produce and apply force, and any specially manufactured primary parts. This includes the manufacture of fixed and mobile or hand-held devices, regardless of whether they are designed for industrial, building and civil engineering, agricultural or home use. The manufacture of special equipment for passenger or freight transport within demarcated premises also belongs within this division.

This division distinguishes between the manufacture of special-purpose machinery, i.e.: machinery for exclusive use in an MSIC industry or a small cluster of MSIC industries, and general-purpose machinery, i.e.: machinery that is being used in a wide range of MSIC industries.

This division also includes the manufacture of other special-purpose machinery, not covered elsewhere in the classification, whether or not used in a manufacturing process, such as fairground amusement equipment, automatic bowling alley equipment, etc.

This division excludes the manufacture of metal products for general use (division 25), associated control devices, computer equipment, measurement and testing equipment, electricity distribution and control apparatus (divisions 26 and 27) and general-purpose motor vehicles (divisions 29 and 30).

GROUP 281 Manufacture of general-purpose machinery

This group includes the manufacture of general-purpose machinery, i.e.: machinery that is being used in a wide range of MSIC industries. This can include the manufacture of components used in the manufacture of a variety of other machinery or the manufacture of machinery that support the operation of other businesses.

GROUP 282 Manufacture of special-purpose machinery

This group includes the manufacture of special-purpose machinery, i.e.: machinery for exclusive use in an MSIC industry or a small cluster of MSIC industries. While most of these are used in other manufacturing processes, such as food manufacturing or textile manufacturing, this group also includes the manufacture of machinery specific for other (non-manufacturing industries), such as aircraft launching gear or amusement park equipment.

DIVISION 31 MANUFACTURE OF FURNITURE

This division includes the manufacture of furniture and related products of any material except stone, concrete and ceramic. The processes used in the manufacture of furniture are standard methods of forming materials and assembling components, including cutting, moulding and laminating. The design of the article, for both aesthetic and functional qualities, is an important aspect of the production process.

Some of the processes used in furniture manufacturing are similar to processes that are used in other segments of manufacturing. For example, cutting and assembly occurs in the production of wood trusses that are classified in division 16 (Manufacture of wood and wood products). However, the multiple processes distinguish wood furniture manufacturing from wood product manufacturing. Similarly, metal furniture manufacturing uses techniques that are also employed in the manufacturing of roll-formed products classified in division 25 (Manufacture of fabricated metal products). The moulding process for plastics furniture is similar to the moulding of other plastics products. However, the manufacture of plastics furniture tends to be a specialized activity.

GROUP 310 Manufacture of furniture

This group includes the manufacture of furniture of any kind, any material (except stone, concrete or ceramic) for any place and various purposes.

CDIVISION 33 REPAIR AND INSTALLATION OF MACHINERY AND EQUIPMENT

The division includes the specialized repair of goods produced in the manufacturing sector with the aim to restore machinery, equipment and other products to working order. The provision of general or routine maintenance (i.e. servicing) on such products to ensure they work efficiently and to prevent breakdown and unnecessary repairs is included.

This division does only include specialized repair and maintenance activities. A substantial amount of repair is also done by manufacturers of machinery, equipment and other goods, in which case the classification of units engaged in these repair and manufacturing activities is done according to the value-added principle which would often assign these combined activities to the manufacture of the good. The same principle is applied for combined trade and repair. The rebuilding or remanufacturing of machinery and equipment is considered a manufacturing activity and included in other divisions of this section.

Repair and maintenance of goods that are utilized as capital goods as well as consumer goods is typically classified as repair and maintenance of household goods (e.g. office and household furniture repair, see 9524).

Also included in this division is the specialized installation of machinery. However, the installation of equipment that forms an integral part of buildings or similar structures, such as installation of electrical wiring, installation of escalators or installation of air-conditioning systems, is classified as construction.

This division excludes the cleaning of industrial machinery (see class 8129) and the repair and maintenance of computers, communications equipment and household goods (see division 95).

GROUP 331 Repair of fabricated metal products, machinery and equipment

This group includes the specialized repair of goods produced in the manufacturing sector with the aim to restore these metal products, machinery, equipment and other products to working order. The provision of general or routine maintenance (i.e. servicing) on such products to ensure they work efficiently and to prevent breakdown and unnecessary repairs is included.

GROUP 332 Installation of industrial machinery and equipment

This group includes the specialized installation of machinery. However, the installation of equipment that forms an integral part of buildings or similar structures, such as installation of escalators, electrical wiring, burglar alarm systems or air-conditioning systems, is classified as construction.

G

This section includes wholesale and retail sale (i.e. sale without transformation) of any type of goods, and rendering services incidental to the sale of merchandise. Wholesaling and retailing are the final steps in the distribution of merchandise. Also included in this section are the repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles.

This section also includes wholesale and retail trade and repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles, wholesale trade, except of motor vehicles and motorcycles, retail trade, except of motor vehicles and motorcycles.

Sale without transformation is considered to include the usual operations (or manipulations) associated with trade, for example sorting, grading and assembling of goods, mixing (blending) of goods (for example wine or sand), bottling (with or without preceding bottle cleaning), packing, breaking bulk and repacking for distribution in smaller lots, storage (whether or not frozen or chilled), cleaning and drying of agricultural products, cutting out of wood fiberboards or metal sheets as secondary activities.

Division 45 includes all activities related to the sale and repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles, while divisions 46 and 47 include all other sale activities. The distinction between division 46 (wholesale) and division 47 (retail sale) is based on the predominant type of customer.

Wholesale is the resale (sale without transformation) of new and used goods to retailers, to industrial, commercial, institutional or professional users, or to other wholesalers, or involves acting as an agent or broker in buying merchandise for, or selling merchandise to, such persons or companies. The principal types of businesses included are merchant wholesalers, i.e. wholesalers who take title to the goods they sell, such as wholesale merchants or jobbers, industrial distributors, exporters, importers, and cooperative buying associations, sales branches and sales offices (but not retail stores) that are maintained by manufacturing or mining units apart from their plants or mines for the purpose of marketing their products and that do not merely take orders to be filled by direct shipments from the plants or mines. Also included are merchandise and commodity brokers, commission merchants and agents and assemblers, buyers and cooperative associations engaged in the marketing of farm products. Wholesalers frequently physically assemble, sort and grade goods in large lots, break bulk, repack and redistribute in smaller lots, for example pharmaceuticals; store, refrigerate, deliver and install goods, engage in sales promotion for their customers and label design.

Retailing is the resale (sale without transformation) of new and used goods mainly to the general public for personal or household consumption or utilization, by shops, department stores, stalls, mail-order houses, door-to-door sales persons, hawkers and peddlers, consumer cooperatives, auction houses, etc. Most retailers take title to the goods they sell, but some act as agents for a principal and sell either on consignment or on a commission basis.

DIVISION 47 RETAIL TRADE, EXCEPT OF MOTOR VEHICLES AND MOTORCYCLES

This division includes the resale (sale without transformation) of new and used goods mainly to the general public for personal or household consumption or utilization, by shops, department stores, stalls, mail-order houses, hawkers and peddlers, consumer cooperatives, etc.

Retail trade is classified first by type of sale outlet (retail trade in stores: groups 471 to 477; retail trade not in stores: groups 478 and 479). Retail trade in stores includes the retail sale of used goods (class 4774). For retail sale in stores, there exists a further distinction between specialized retail sale (groups 472 to 477) and non-specialized retail sale (group 471). The above groups are further subdivided by the range of products sold. Sale not via stores is subdivided according to the forms of trade, such as retail sale via stalls and markets (group 478) and other non-store retail sale, e.g. mail order, door-to-door, by vending machines, etc. (group 479).

The goods sold in this division are limited to goods usually referred to as consumer goods or retail goods. Therefore goods not usually entering the retail trade, such as cereal grains, ores, industrial machinery etc., are excluded. This division also includes units engaged primarily in selling to the general public, from displayed merchandise, products such as personal computers, stationery, paint or timber, although these sales may not be for personal or household use. Some processing of goods may be involved, but only incidental to selling, e.g. sorting or repackaging of goods, installation of a domestic appliance, etc.

This division also includes the retail sale by commission agents and activities of retail auctioning houses.

This division excludes sale of farmers' products by farmers (see division 01), manufacture and sale of goods, which is generally classified as manufacturing in divisions 10-32, sale of motor vehicles, motorcycles and their parts (see division 45), trade in cereal grains, ores, crude petroleum, industrial chemicals, iron and steel and industrial machinery and equipment (see division 46), sale of food and drinks for consumption on the premises and sale of takeaway food (see division 56) and renting of personal and household goods to the general public (see group 772).

SECTION O : PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND DEFENCE; COMPULSORY SOCIAL SECURITY

LEVEL	MSIC 2008 Ver. 1.0
DIVISION	1
GROUP	3
ITEM	28

This section includes activities of a governmental nature, normally carried out by the public administration. This includes the enactment and judicial interpretation of laws and their pursuant regulation, as well as the administration of programmes based on them, legislative activities, taxation, national defence, public order and safety, immigration services, foreign affairs and the administration of government programmes. This section also includes compulsory social security activities. The legal or institutional status is not, in itself, the determining factor for an activity to belong in this section, rather than the activity being of a nature specified in the previous paragraph. This means that activities classified elsewhere in MSIC do not fall under this section, even if carried out by public entities. For example, administration of the school system (i.e. regulations, checks, curricula) falls under this section, but teaching itself does not (see section P) and a prison or military hospital is classified to health (see section Q). Similarly, some activities described in this section may be carried out by non-government units.

DIVISION 84 PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION AND DEFENCE; COMPULSORY SOCIAL SECURITY
